FRENCH REGULATIONS ARE STRICT NEAR BATTLE LINE

[Associated Press]

JONCHERY, France.-The civilian

visitors to any village near the firing line are usually compelled to sleep in the vehicles in which they came. As Excellent table hoard by the meal, to entitled, and discharging it and its to getting anything to eat or drink. this is almost impossible. The restaurant or innkeeper always declares that all food has been requisitioned by the soldiers. If the visitor has brought his provisions with him, he may eat them at the inn, but nothing, can be cooked in the place owing to lack of fuel.

The visitor may not go out into the streets between 6 o'clock in the evening and 5 o'clock in the morning, so severe are the restrictions of martial law. Should he break the regulations he is arrested and kept in the gendarmery until an escort has been provided, which accompanies him to some city far to the rear, and he is put under parole not to approach the lines again during the campaign.
